Hi ,Benny Wenda and the West Papuan Liberation Movement regularly rock Indonesia's political class to the core. They've done it again. On December 1, they announced the formation of the Provisional Government of West Papua, a huge step towards building an independent state. From , the international media is finally paying attention. The head of the Indonesian military, deputy police chief and security minister responded with public threats against Interim President Wenda and the Liberation Movement. So severe are the threats that the movement's lawyers have

submitted a complaint to the UN

. West Papuans are up against the government of the fourth-most populous country in the world; relying only on the financial generosity of supporters like yourself, they march relentlessly closer to freedom. To succeed, they need to increase their diplomatic activity across the globe.

They can only do this with your support.
